EUROPEAN MISSION
FELLOWSHIP

We are a fellowship of churches and individuals networking together to support gospel workers in 16 countries across Europe.

We train, send and support both national and cross cultural leaders so that local churches can be planted, pastored and multiplied.

Never has there been a greater need for churches that are God centred, Gospel driven, theologically clear, culturally connected and pastorally engaged.

About Matt and Judith

Matt was brought up in a Christian home in Stockton-on-Tees in the north-east of England, where his father was pastor of the local church. He came to faith and, as a young man, felt a calling to full time service. With his family's interest in gospel work in Spain, and a clear call to missionary work, it was with Spain in mind that Matt entered theological training in 1986.

Judith was born near Cookstown in County Tyrone, Northern Ireland and attended the local Presbyterian Church. She was converted as a young child and, at the age of eighteen, she felt that God was calling her into mission. Matt and Judith met in 1986 when they both attended the same theological college. They married in 1988 and have two sons, Thomas and Jacob, who were both born in Spain

Matt and Judith arrived in Spain in July 1991 and following three years language study, they moved to Santa Cruz de Mudela to pastor the church. In November 2005 Matt was called to pastor the church in Cuenca, which coincided with Matt and Judith joining EMF. The Cuenca church had been planted by Luis Cano, another EMF missionary.

In 2010 the family moved to Ciudad Real and Matt began to work with the Spanish evangelical publishing house Editorial Peregrino (EP). In March 2014, Matt took on the leadership of EP. The publishing house has grown into a strategic and significant work resourcing Spanish speakers across the world.

About Spain

Like many countries in the western world, Spain is something of a paradox when it comes to religion – it is still very religious but is getting more secular every day. Pray for the cities of Barcelona and Madrid and for the 345 cities and towns of over 5000 people where there is no evangelical church.

Islam is growing and there are now over one million Muslims in Spain. Most of them are immigrants from North Africa but it is estimated that there are thirty thousand converts from the Spanish population too. Evangelical Christianity is also growing – albeit very modestly. Church congregations have been strengthened by many Spanish-speaking evangelical Christians coming to live and work in Spain from South America. There are also signs that local people are being converted and added to churches. Gospel churches have a real opportunity to proclaim the truth to a generation of people disillusioned with false religion and secularism.
